

straighter until it disappeared <sup>(2)</sup> into space in the south east It looked half as big as the Moon and was a pale yellow; but since it was much closer I knew it was much smaller.
A man about 70 sat here and saw it. He said his ancestors had seen them generations "before" and had called them "omens" and also
"Jack O' Lanterns".

I was very much concerned about how this body had fallen half way to Earth [From where I had first seen it] and had then risen and vanished into space.

I knew it was to far in Earth's gravity to be pulled but by the gravity of the Sun or Moon, as they were on the opposite side of the Earth. This object had gone in an entirely different direction than either of them.